international fashion tips its hat to australian designer

Definition:*Milliner: mil·li·ner (ml-nr)

n.

A milliner is a person who designs, makes, or sells women's hats.

With a Kentucky Derby solo exhibition, a new collection of millinery and hat & handbag ensembles to be launched at New York's Couture Fashion Week this September, a documentary film and a glorious coffee table book of her images in the pipeline, the story of Miranda Green Millinery combines creativity and integrity with just a dash of the entrepreneur.

After Miranda Green launched MGmillinery in 1997, this self-taught Western Australian milliner has produced two seasonal collections per year, with sales extending from the fashionable streets of Sydney to New York City's financial district and Louisville, Kentucky for the big Derby race in May. Her coffee table book, "A Milliner's Tale", published in July 2006, showcases a stunning array of designs. The documentary, which has tracked MGmillinery's progress since February 2004, will display the lead up to New York's Couture Fashion Week covering the 5-day event itself, ending after the Champagne Fashion Brunch runway show on Sunday.

Establishing MGmillinery and developing its international profile is based on enhancing women's self esteem through Green's creations. Clients love MGM because the hats are crafted to accentuate a woman's individuality and style, ranging from classic, feminine or funky, to works of art with sculptural lines designed for the fantasy world of the catwalk.

Green's focus on individuality is the key, and it has her customers leaving Miranda's studio rooms always 'feeling good' about their look. Green's belief in this approach is backed by her use of amateurs of various body types ranging in age from 18 to 61 to model her designs on her website www.mirandagreenmillinery.com.au as well as in all MGmillinery promotions.

MGmillinery's striking Couture Collection and stylish Resort and Green Girl, label headwear favors natural fibers such as Australian wool, linen, velvet, and sumptuous silks. The hats are all hand made by Green, assisted by her Tibetan husband and her millinery team in her Fremantle studio. In line with Green's business ethics and a typical Australian "fair go" attitude, a future goal of the business is to establish an MGmillinery workshop in India, providing opportunities for local Tibetan women to gain skills and experience in the industry, leading to rewarding and life enhancing employment within their community.

USA International Fashion Shows, created by Andres Aquino, produces an exciting series of runway fashion shows year round, featuring both national and international designers of couture and finely tailored garments and distinctive accessories.

"The hats speak for themselves, which isn't surprising, considering the fact that each possesses its own name, story, theme and distinctive personality. The unique sculptural look of Miranda Green hats will frame any face like an artwork, surrounding the wearer in vibrant color and exquisite natural and antique fabrics. Some hats, such as 'Starr', are inspired by the architecture of the Taj Mahal while others take their names and styles from glamorous actresses like Ava Gardner and writers such as Anais Nin."
